SAVING ON SCHOOL BOOKS.

Report From Superintendent Cameron's Office Shows Difference in Cost.

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 8.—The cost to the pupils of the first 12 grades in Oklahoma schools for new books purchased this year, going on the assumption that there are 350,000 students, is $1,022,050. Comparing prices of last year with this year's schedule as secured by the state text book commission, the actual saving to every pupil in the grades is $3, on the average, making a total saving for the 350,000 pupils of $1,050,000. Subtraction does the rest, leaving a balance of $27,950, which is a surplus accruing to the interest of the Oklahoma school child.

This is the deduction gained by Assistant State Superintendent and Education John W. Wilkinson, computations are on actual figures. He does not take into consideration the immense amount saved by employing the basis of exchange.

Carnegie Gives $20,000 to Republicans

New York, Oct. 9.—The fact that Andrew Carnegie has contributed $1,000 to the campaign fund of the republican national committee was announced today by State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff. Mr. Woodruff also added that Mrs. Russell Sage had contributed $1,000 to the same fund. There have been no other large contributions from individuals, Mr. Woodruff said, but small sums are coming in from various sources. George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the national republican committee, when asked about the contributions, declined to discuss the matter, saying that he would publish a list of all the contributions made to the republican committee after election. An appeal for contributions to the national campaign fund of $50 each from 10,000 business men was published today by Treasurer Sheldon of the republican national committee.

BRYAN VERY MUCH ALIVE

Once Bought Humorous Books, But Now Reads G. O. P. Platform and Saves His Money.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 9.—Standing on the same platform from which Mr. Taft, his republican opponent, only a few days ago delivered an address William J. Bryan today denounced President Roosevelt once again for participating in the campaign in behalf of Mr. Taft, asserted that Mr. Taft could give no promise of real reform and attacked the republican party generally for its injustices, as he charged, to the laboring man and the people generally. When the special train bearing the presidential candidate pulled into the station a great crowd cheered him coviferously, but upon his arrival at Knok College, where the platform was erected he faced one of the largest audiences that ever assembled here.

Referring to Mr. Taft's visit Mr. Bryan remarked:

"It is no new thing for you to see next presidents, for having seen my opponent, Mr. Taft, and now seeing me, you are certain that you have seen the next president, although neither of us is as certain as we would like to be which one it is. And here, too, you saw those of you who lived at that time, two men who were pitted against each other in the most bitter contest that has been known in the history of the world. I think I am safe in saying that the records give no parallel to the great series of debates between Lincoln and Douglas."

He said he would try to show how on several different questions the democratic party was appealing for justice. He then spoke concerning publicity of campaign contributions before election, and ridiculed Mr. Taft for expressing a "personal inclination" toward that proposition and not coming out squarely for it. Following a denunciation of Speaker Cannon and Mr. Sherman, the republican vice presidential nominee, for, as he said, stifling in the house of representatives legislation that would benefit the people, he took up the labor question. The crowd was moved to rousing cheers when he declared that the democratic party insisted on justice to those who toil.

Views of Lincoln.

"The republican party," he said, "has allowed the lobbyist of great corporate interests to stifle legislation," and he informed his hearers that the democratic party's aim was to handle the laboring man as a human being and not as a mere piece of merchandise.

"We are not willing," he said, "that a man in the image of his Creator, with heart, brain and soul, shall be degraded to the level of dollars and cents. The great statesman who was engaged to debate in this place in 1858—Abraham Lincoln—a year after he spoke here, wrote a letter to some people in Boston, and in that letter he said, that the republican party believed in the man and the dollar, but that in case of conflict it believed in the man before the dollar."

Mr. Bryan said that he believed that was the proper relation between money and men. He then dwelt at some length in support of the proposition to grant trials by jury in cases of indirect complaint.

Mr. Bryan made fun of the republican platform, basing his remarks principally on the recent editorial in the Omaha Bee, which he said criticised a part of the republican tariff plank under the supposition that it was an extract from some speech of his.

Republican Platform Funny.

"Why, my friends," he said, "I used to buy books on humor whenever I wanted to read something funny but now I read republican platforms and save my money. The funniest platform I ever read was the one adopted at Chicago, and the funniest plant in it is the tariff plank." He read the editorial referred to,

and said:

"The man who edits the paper is a member of the executive committee of the republican national committee, so well posted that he is at the head of the publicity bureau. He says he did not write it, and I am willing to take his word for it. It was written to shed light on public questions for the benefit of the readers of the paper, and it only shows how ridiculous the republican platform looks to a republican when the republican can look at it without bias or prejudice."

As he had done several times before during the day, Mr. Bryan announced himself as the "advance agent of prosperity," and bitterly assailed the president and Mr. Taft as a member of his cabinet for the panic of 1907. He closed his speech with a severe arraignment of the president for, as he charged, interfering in a fight between himself and his republican opponent. Mr. Roosevelt, he said, has had seven years, and now he is trying to control another term. Justice, he declared, demanded that the president cease using official duties to further the candidacy of his appointee.

Mr. Bryan spoke along the same general lines at Sreator and Joliet before coming here.

Cameron Against Bill.

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 9.—E. D. Cameron, state superintendent of education, who has been asked by the democratic state committee to fill speaking dates, that will keep the prominent educator busy until the last day of this month, will among other issues, urge that the state school land be conserved in the interests of the Oklahoma school children. Mr. Cameron is in favor of disposing of the public building and indemnity land, but is heartily opposed to selling sections 16 and 36 in every township.

"I believe that it is for the benefit of the Oklahoma school child and I intend to tell the public my views on it," said Mr. Cameron today.

The state superintendent will begin his itinerary Monday night at Eldorado. He will conclude his tour of 16 towns at Oklahoma City October 31.

Mr. Cameron will outline in his speeches the work of the legislature, with special reference to the educational department. He has some 17 recommendations that were favorably acted on by the legislature and those that were passed up probably will be considered at the coming January session. Mr. Cameron itinerary follows:

October 12th, Eldorado; 13th, Olustee (afternoon); Cordell (night); 14th, Cordell and Rocky; 15th, Elk City; 16th, Noble and Norman; 17th, Byars and Pauls Valley; 26th Edmond; 27th, Spencer; 28th, Harrah; 29th, Choctaw City; 30th, Capitol Hill; 31st, Oklahoma City.

COMMEND HASKELL.

Democratic Mass Meeting at Oklahoma City Adopt Resolutions.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Oct. 9.—From the same platform employed by Secretary Taft a year ago, when he came to Oklahoma and denounced the State Constitution, urging the people to reject it, and later used by Mr. Bryan to characterize the then secretary of war as the "Great Postponer for Ohio," Gov. C. N. Haskell faced a large and somewhat enthusiastic audience tonight. The occasion was a democratic rally held under the auspices of the Oklahoma City Bryan and Kern club.

Some excitement was furnished when at the conclusion of the address Paul Nesbit of the State Examiner and Inspector's office presented for adoption a set of resolutions telling of Gov. Haskell's work in the state, the story of his resignation from the national democratic committee and the causes of the fight being made upon him.

Roosevelt and Hearst.
The resolutions denounced President

dent Roosevelt and W. R. Hearst as associating, naming the former as an ally and associate of the latter. When it came to the adoption R. E. Still, a real estate dealer of Oklahoma City, announced that he was a democrat of thirty-six years' standing, and asked that all reference to the President as an associate of Mr. Hearst be eliminated. Cries against the motion at once became deafening, and it was impossible for Lee Cruce of Ardmore, who presided as chairman of the meeting, to get the audience quiet. Considerable loud talk that could hardly be heard above the general noise passed between Mr. Still and others in the throng, until three policemen moved through the crowd, surging around the press tables in futile attempts to restore order. To add to the excitement one end of the platform, upon which were standing a number of ladies and those who had taken seats on the platform, gave way with a crash, falling about five feet. No one was reported injured, but this incident had little effect on Mr. Still, who proclaimed at the top of his voice that he was "a democrat in the house of the faithful." Chairman Cruce finally put the motion to adopt the resolution as read, which carried with loud acclaim, with Mr. Still demanding that the procedure was wrong, as his motion should have been put first.

Invited to Texas Fair.

A gentleman from Ardmore whose name was not announced then presented to Gov. Haskell a banner from Carter county, following which Sidney Suggs of Ardmore, in a speech, extended the people of Oklahoma an invitation to attend the Texas State Fair at Dallas, Oct. 20, when Gov. Haskell will make an address there. What remained of the gathering filed out of the large auditorium. The building has a seating capacity of about 4,500 and when the Governor mounted the platform all seats were filled and there were not less than 1,500 standing in the rear and along the sides of the room. In the audience were a number of republicans, judging at times from the applause. There were present democrats from all points in the state, wearing badges and buttons complimentary to the governor. Badges brought by the Guthrie contingent carried the following:

"I am for Governor Haskell because he is for honest government. And the grafters still kick."

They were pinned to coats with buttons bearing Gov. Haskell's portrait, while some were pinned with buttons bearing pictures of both Bryan and Haskell. Two bands furnished the music were lustily applauded in playing "Dixie" and "Star-Spangled Banner."

Haskell Applauded.

Although much of the governor's speech had been repeated, at other places, his newness here served to keep the audience in a good state of applause, that frequently broke into shouts and cheers. He referred with frequency to Dennis T. Flynn, republican candidate for the United States senate; Bird S. McGuire, republican candidate for congress from the Fifth District; William Busby of McAlester, but did not mention by name neither L. L. Russell of Ardmore nor Omar K. Benedict of Oklahoma City. He denounced President Roosevelt and W. R. Hearst.

Mr. Cruce as chairman of the meeting asked that the best seats be given to those who had seen fit to criticize the state administration, for it was desired that they be made to feel as comfortable as possible in view of what was coming. He said it was the time and the duty of every patriotic citizen to stand with the governor in the fight he is making. Applause greeted this statement. "We have office," he said "to attack Gov. Haskell, seen the president descended from his high but ten thousand times more is he attacking the injunction of the people of Oklahoma."

"If I stood in his place I would not seek vindication in the courts. He has appeared before the people of Oklahoma, been tried and vindicated by a majority of more than 25,000. (Applause.) I would rather have that kind of vindication than all the verdicts of all the juries of the earth. (Applause.) This is the most important campaign since the war. If you are a republican and after reading the platform of the republican party you conclude that it is the best, then vote the republican ticket (hisses and cries of "No"), but, after reading the democratic platform, if you find that it is better, then it is your duty to vote the democratic ticket." (Cheers.)

After the ovation following the introduction of Gov. Haskell died away he held in his hand a list of printed questions, unsigned, but purporting to be from laboring men.

"Union labor will put its foot up-act. (Cheers.) They never attack a man by lack of signature" (applause), he said dropping the paper to the floor. Several cried, "Hurrah for Haskell," and one told him to put his foot upon the paper.

"Union labor will put its foot upon it," he answered. He told the audience that since his election as governor he had not taken a moment's time from the work of state for his personal business. His efforts in placing the state in the front rank had been attacked, he said, by republicans and others with memory of the flesh pots of territorial days, who have neither love of country nor pride in the state.

Referring to President Roosevelt he said:

"The president of the United States, apparently ambitious to win laurels in a political campaign and possibly mistaking that I was a candidate (cheers) descended from the office that has been graced by such men as Washington and Lincoln in his attack upon me, to the position below his attack upon me, to the position below the gutter level in east side politics in New York. (Cheers.) So anxious was he to pick me as a victim that he accepted hearsay evidence from the man who a few years ago he had branded as being responsible for the assassination of President McKinley. In a few days he revised his story.

"He said that I attempted to bribe the attorney general of Ohio, but with the secret service at his command he backed down like a whipped puppy without knowing the truth. (Cheers.) Five days later he said: 'Omitting further allusion to the Ohio matter, I now charge C. N. Haskell has been used by a firm of attorneys for $500.' This is dropping from the sublime to the ridiculous, but he has not the courage and manhood to say, 'I apologize for lying about you.'

He then told of the statement of Mr. Monnett, the Attorney General of Ohio referred to, and the statements of C. B. Squires to the effect that he had no conversation with Monnett, did not know Haskell, and that Haskell had no connection with the Standard Oil Company. All this forced him, the governor said, to join president Roosevelt and conclude it was unnecessary to make further allusion to the Ohio matter.

The governor paid his respects to W. R. Hearst, and then took up state matters and defended the acts of the state administration. Answering the charges that the school land department was being conducted with great expense, he said that for the first six months under the state it cost $14,000, while for the same period under territorial days it cost 13,000, but now the state had nine hundred thousand acres more of land to look after. He told of a pigeonhole found in the Territorial department containing 0278,000 worth of notes due the department which had been marked as worthless and uncollectable. An attorney was employed, and has collected $189,749.29 of the amount at a cost to the state of $1,807. In this connection he said that Fred L. Wenner, the last secretary of the Territorial land department, was a capable and honest officer, who had to take his orders for a Territorial board, where the trouble always originated. It cost $2,100 to handle the farm loan department to date.

A significant statement was made regarding the state tax levy. The governor stated that this year only $905,210.11 would have to be secured by a direct levy, while $845,000 would be paid by the public service corporations enjoying special privileges. After this year he said he believed the state would not levy a direct tax for state purposes. He told how he had required counties to pay for warrants, and took up the school book contracts, referring to the refusal of some of the companies to exchange the books, as the contracts required. He said that he had ordered the attorney general of the state to bring suits and procure the appointment of receivers for the stock of books of such companies in Oklahoma, and that the receivers would be permitted to conduct the business and exchange the books as the contracts required. This statement met with vigorous applause.

After again paying his respects to President Roosevelt, whom he characterized as "Teddy the Terrible" who had permitted Mr. Cortelyou, he said, to gather from the United States Steel Company $120,000 for campaign purposes when he (Roosevelt) was a candidate for the presidency, the governor concluded, receiving the congratulations of many of those on the platform.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments. The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

J. W. Byrd Gone.

This morning at six o'clock J. W. Byrd died at the home of R. W. Simpson on West 14th with tuberculosis. His affliction was long and painful and the end, however sad, was undoubtedly a welcome relief to this man who wrestled so long patiently and bravely with the affliction that knows no master. For more than eighteen months the deceased fought for strength, but it was the will of Providence that he should come and abide where sickness and sorrow is not known.

The death of Walter Byrd is an unspeakable loss to not only those who are closest to him on account of kindred tie, but to his army of friends in Ada, Konowa, elsewhere in Oklahoma and in his native state, Mississippi. He came to Ada several years ago, and was engaged here in the cotton business until his health gave away more than a year ago. Against him no man could say aught. He was a good man.

All Ada is bowed in profound grief and genuine reverence. He leaves a lone companion whose love, devotion and tender care throughout the struggle has been no less beautiful than pathetic. She was faithful.

Notices announce that funeral services will be conducted at the Methodist church Sunday at 1 p. m., by Pastor T. L. Rippey of which church the deceased was a constant member. The interment will take place at Rosedale following the funeral services.

J. C. Byrd, a brother from Corinth, Miss.; G. L. Carroll of Ardmore, father of Mrs. Byrd, and Mr. and Mrs. Foster Simpson of Konowa, are in attendance.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

One of the happiest memories of our childhood is the time when mother dressed us up in our best clothes and led us away to Sunday school. Sometimes we were very rebellious. We wanted to chase butterflies across the meadow if we were in the country and we wanted to play with the friend next door if we were in the city. Do you remember how we were placed on the long seats and our feet just dangled on the floor? Perhaps our teacher was a very beautiful girl who looked more like the angel she told us about than flesh and blood. She related wonderful stories of the biblical characters and taught us those great truths that guide us even today when the crisis comes and our best self rules us. We sang the simple songs as the chorus led; we bowed our little heads as the prayers were offered; we listened to the words of the pastor, whose kind face we can never forget, and then we wandered back home tugging at mother's hand and pleading for more stories of the wonderful Nazarine.

Now we are great big, men and women and perhaps we are more worldly than we should be. We think of business, of social duties, of our ambitions to excel our brothers and too often we forget the meaning of the Sabbath and too often we do not think of taking our children to Sunday school. We think we have no time to waste in going to church. We hold to that form of worship which is not sectarian and does not call for attendance at church. We may be disbelievers, backsliders, or we may be just neglectful. What ever our own creed may be, however, we have no right to deny the little ones the privileges of attending Sunday school. It is a part of our duty to our offsprings and to society as a whole to see they are brought up in the right way. Perhaps our neglect has gone to such an extent that the children do not want to go. They prefer to play in the nursery or romp on the lawn, but it is our duty to see they are given that early religious teaching upon which the great structure of real manhood and womanhood is reared.

After all, the source of all real happiness is a firm belief in the teachings of the Bible and of Jesus and Him crucified. In the mad pursuit of the bubbles of life—riches, power, prestige—we often lose sight of this great truth. It is only when some sorrow comes, some sudden reverses in business, some failure to achieve, dims the blue background of our skies that we turn to the Book and recall the old days when we trudged away to Sunday school. Then all the beauty, all the power of those simple truths dawn upon us again and we are our best selves, strong in faith and able to bear any burden.

You say it is not the province of a newspaper to preach sermons? This, kind reader, is no sermon; it is just a little heart-to-heart talk which may touch someone's heart and be the means of sending some little child to Sunday school and forming impressions which will cling to that child through all the years to come. As we walk down to our office to look over the Sunday morning mail, let us resolve to see that the ones we love best of all spend a part of the day as the Infinite One intended.

OPENING OF THE NEW OPERA HOUSE

The work at the Airdome will be complete on Monday and the grand opening is to be on Monday night. Manager Parks has had a number of carpenters at work at the Airdome for the past few days constructing a roof over the place. There will also be a number of new seats put in and large stoves to make the place warm during the winter months. The seating capacity will be arranged so the house can seat about 1200 to 1500 people and it is believed the Gertrude Ewing Company will test the capacity of the house on Monday night.

Miss Ewing has selected for the Ada theater goes the most successful plays of her extensive repertoire for the opening on Monday night, "In the Shadow of the Czar" will be the offering and ladies will be admitted free on this night under the usual conditions.

The specialties introduced between the acts are of a high class and are equal to those seen in the larger cities. All special scenery is to be used and handsome costuming, including the famous director gown.

Seast have been placed on sale at Ramsey's drug store, and the ladies free ticket must be had at the advance sale before six o'clock Monday.

A special matinee will be given on Saturday afternoon. The offering will be that funny cartoon comedy, "Mary Jane and Buster Brown."

The night prices are 25, 35 and 50 cents. Matinee, 10 and 20 cents.

FURNITURE FACTORY FOR ADA, WILL WORK 500 MEN.

About a year ago two men saw W. J. Reed at Atoka and after the latter had blown off about his town (for he is the real founder) indicated to him that they were going to put up a furniture factory somewhere in the Southwest, and that Ada sounded good to them. They soon afterwards wrote the secretary of 25,000 club and put the proposition up to the city, but to tell the truth it looked too good to be true, so the letter was not given the thought that it deserved. Ada had an opportunity then but let it go. But that same opportunity is still within reach of the thriving city if she would only reach out. These same promoters are here. A. C. Johnson and H. L. Christenson of Grand Rapids, Mich., are in the city, and want to propose to the city to put up a reed furniture factory. They want to incorporate for $600,000.00, and make it big enough to employ 500 men from the outset.

Space will not permit us to say here what they want and what they have to offer, so we invite the public to meet these men at the club rooms Monday night and confer with them concerning this big enterprise. Don't fail to come.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.
Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that backache pains come from sick kidneys, 'twould save much needless woe. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. Ada people endorse this:

Mrs. S. M. Kyser, living at 502 W. Main street, Ada, Okla., says: "Last summer I was suffering a great deal from a dull, heavy aching through my back and hips. I thought it was due to a cold settling on my kidneys, and was inclined to believe that it would soon disappear. The aching became more intense, however, and other symptoms of kidney trouble developed. I then decided to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial, and procured a box at G. M. Ramsey's drug store. After taking a few doses the trouble began to disappear. I continued using the remedy faithfully, until my difficulties were entirely removed. I am glad to state I have had no return of kidney complaint since."

Warships Leave Manila.

Manila, Oct. 10.—The sixteen big battleships of the Atlantic fleet are now en route to Japan. Early this morning the flagship Connecticut got under way. Half an hour later all of the great ships were in motion and followed the Connecticut down the bay.

Simultaneously with the departure of the fleet, the authorities of Manila started a new campaign to eradicate cholera. The police were ordered to make two house-to-house inspections daily and the constabulary which has been reinforced, will perform ordinary police duty and guard infected houses. The disinfecting force has been increased and the general scope of the work broadened. The number of new cases reported averages 10 daily.

BRYAN HITTING HARD.

"President Will Not Be Permitted to Name His Successor," Says
Mr. Bryan.

Hannibal, Mo., Oct. 9.—Closing up in this city tonight the biggest day of his campaign, William J. Bryan, democratic candidate for president, was the center of the greatest demonstration in the history of this city. His train was more than an hour late in arriving, but the enormous crowd was kept in good humor by speakers of state prominence, including representatives of the various factions of the democratic party in Missouri. A mighty crowd greeted the Bryan special as it pulled into the station.

Escorted by the mounted escort bearing torches with lady outriders flanking his automobile, the candidate passed through a lane of red fire the entire length of the parade route to the city park. The great crowd fell in line behind the parade and cheered loudly and with great fervor.

Mr. Bryan's speech was along those of his various addresses throughout the day. Under the direction of Missouri democratic committee, Mr. Bryan will make his first tour of the campaign in Missouri tomorrow, proceeding across the state to St. Joseph, making set speeches at Paris, Moberly and Kansas City.

Fresh from his conference in Chicago with hundreds of business men whom he also separately addressed, Mr. Bryan traveling for 12 hours through the state of Illinois, and making numerous stops, held himself up as "the advance agent of prosperity." The panic of last fall was his principal theme and from early morn until his last word was uttered tonight, he hammered away at the republican charge that his election meant business depression and failures. Attention was called to a statement recently appearing in a Chicago go republican paper that 15,000 children went to school hungry every morning. A democratic victory this year, he asserted, furnished the only hope of a cure for the hard times from which, he said, the people are suffering and for a restoration of prosperity.

For the first time he referred to Mr. Longworth's alleged statement at Moline, Ill., that Mr. Taft should be elected and hold office for eight years and then be succeeded by his president-father-in-law, Roosevelt.

"He shall not be permitted to nominate and elect his successor," vehemently declared Mr. Bryan, "with the prospect as announced by his son-in-law of then declining for eight years more. It is time that the power of the people shall be used by the people."

Enormous crowds greeted him everywhere along the route of travel and enthusiastically cheered him. With the speech delivered here tonight he had spoken fifteen times.

Accompanying the candidate today was a large delegation for the Illinois democratic state committee, and former Governor David R. Francis of Missouri, who was a member of President Cleveland's cabinet.

COMMEND HASKELL.

Democratic Mass Meeting at Oklahoma City Adopt Resolutions.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Oct. 9.—From the same platform employed by Secretary Taft a year ago, when he came to Oklahoma and denounced the State Constitution, urging the people to reject it, and later used by Mr. Bryan to characterize the then secretary of war as the "Great Postponer for Ohio," Gov. C. N. Haskell faced a large and somewhat enthusiastic audience tonight. The occasion was a democratic rally held under the auspices of the Oklahoma City Bryan and Kern club.

Some excitement was furnished when at the conclusion of the address Paul Nesbitt of the State Examiner and Inspector's office presented for adoption a set of resolutions, telling of Gov. Haskell's work in the state, the story of his resignation from the national democratic committee and the causes of the fight being made upon him.

Roosevelt and Hearst.
The resolutions denounced President

dent Roosevelt and W. R. Hearst as associating naming the former as an ally and associate of the latter. When it came to the adoption R. E. Still, a real estate dealer of Oklahoma City, announced that he was a democrat of thirty-six years' standing, and asked that all reference to the President, as an associate of Mr. Hearst be eliminated. Cries against the motion at once became deafening, and it was impossible for Lee Cruce of Ardmore, who presided as chairman of the meeting, to get the audience quiet. Considerable loud talk that could hardly be heard above the general noise passed between Mr. Still and others in the throng, until three policemen moved through the crowd, surging around the press tables in futile attempts to restore order. To add to the excitement one end of the platform, upon which were standing a number of ladies and those who had taken seats on the platform, gave way with a crash, falling about five feet. No one was reported injured, but this incident had little effect on Mr. Still, who proclaimed at the top of his voice that he was "a democrat in the house of the faithful." Chairman Cruce finally put the motion to adopt the resolution as read which carried with loud acclaim, with Mr. Still demanding that the procedure was wrong, as his motion should have been put first.

Invited to Texas Fair.

A gentleman from Ardmore whose name was not announced then presented to Gov. Haskell a banner from Carter county, following which Sidney Sugars of Ardmore in a speech, extended the people of Oklahoma an invitation to attend the Texas State Fair at Dallas Oct. 20, when Gov. Haskell will make an address there. What remained of the gathering filed out of the large auditorium. The building has a seating capacity of about 1,500 and when the Governor mounted the platform all seats were filled and there were not less than 1,500 standing in the rear and along the sides of the room. In the audience were a number of republicans, judging at times from the applause. There were present democrats from all points in the state, wearing badges and buttons complimentary to the governor. Badges brought by the Guthrie contingent carried the following:

"I am for Governor Haskell because he is for honest government. And the grafters still kick."

They were pinned to coats with buttons bearing Gov. Haskell's portrait, while some were pinned with buttons bearing pictures of both Bryan and Haskell. Two hands furnished the music were lustily applauded in playing "Dixie" and "Star-Spangled Banner."

Haskell Applauded.

Although much of the governor's speech had been repeated, at other places, its newness here served to keep the audience in a good state of applause, that frequently broke into shouts and cheers. He referred with frequency to Dennis T. Flynn, republican candidate for the United States senate; Bird S. McGuire, republican candidate for congress from the Fifth District; William Bushy of McAlester, but did not mention by name neither L. L. Russell of Ardmore nor Omar K. Benedict of Oklahoma City. He denounced President Roosevelt and W. R. Hearst.

Mr. Cruce as chairman of the meeting asked that the best seats be given to those who had seen fit to criticize the state administration, for it was desired that they be made to feel as comfortable as possible in view of what was coming. He said it was the time and the duty of every patriotic citizen to stand with the governor in the fight he is making. Applause greeted this statement. "We have office," he said "to attack Gov. Haskell, seen the president descended from his high but ten thousand times more is he attacking the injunction of the people of Oklahoma."

"If I stood in his place I would not seek vindication in the courts. He has appeared before the people of Oklahoma, been tried and vindicated by a majority of more than 25,000. (Applause.) I would rather have that kind of vindication than all the verdicts of all the juries of the earth. (Applause.) This is the most important campaign since the war. If you are a republican and after reading the platform of the republican party you conclude that it is the best, then vote the republican ticket (thuses and cries of "No"), but, after reading the democratic platform, if you find that it is better, then it is your duty to vote the democratic ticket." (Cheers.)

After the ovation following the introduction of Gov. Haskell died away he held in his hand a list of printed questions, unsigned, but purporting to be from laboring men.

"Union labor will put its foot upon it. (Cheers.) They never attack a man by lack of signature" (applause), he said dropping the paper to the floor. Several cried, "Hurrah for Haskell," and one told him to put his foot upon the paper.

"Union labor will put its foot upon it," he answered. He told the audience that since his election as governor he had not taken a moment's time from the work of state for his personal business. His efforts in placing the state in the front rank had been attacked, he said, by republicans and others with memory of the flesh pots of territorial days, who have neither love of country nor pride in the state.

Referring to President Roosevelt he said:

"The president of the United States, apparently ambitious to win laurels in a political campaign and possibly mistaking that I was a candidate (cheers,) descended from the office that has been graced by such men as Washington and Lincoln in his attack upon me, to the position below his gutter level in east side politics in New York. (Cheers.) So anxious was he to pick me as a victim that he accepted hearsay evidence from the man who a few years ago he had branded as being responsible for the assassination of President McKinley. In a few days he revisited his story.

"He said that I attempted to bribe the attorney general of Ohio, but with the secret service at his command he backed down like a whipped puppy without knowing the truth. (Cheers.) Five days later he said: 'Omitting further allusion to the Ohio matter, I now charge C. N. Haskell has been used by a firm of attorneys for $500.' This is dropping from the sublime to the ridiculous, but he has not the courage and manhood to say, 'I apologize for lying about you.'

He then told of the statement of Mr. Monnett, the Attorney General of Ohio referred to, and the statements of C. B. Squires to the effect that he had no conversation with Monnett, did not know Haskell, and that Haskell had no connection with the Standard Oil Company. All this forced him, the governor said, to join president Roosevelt and conclude it was unnecessary to make further allusion to the Ohio matter.

The governor paid his respects to W. R. Hearst, and then took up state matters and defended the acts of the state administration. Answering the charges that the school land department was being conducted with great expense, he said that for the first six months under the state it cost $14,000, while for the same period under territorial days it cost $2,000, but now the state had nine hundred thousand acres more of land to look after. He told of a pigeonhole found in the Territorial department containing 9278,000 worth of notes due the department which had been marked as worthless and uncollectible. An attorney was employed, and has collected $189,719.29 of the amount at a cost to the state of $1,807. In this connection he said that Fred L. Wennert, the last secretary of the Territorial land department, was a capable and honest officer, who had to take his orders for a Territorial board, where the trouble always originated. It cost $2,100 to handle the farm loan department to date.

A significant statement was made regarding the state tax levy. The governor stated that this year only $905,210.11 would have to be secured by a direct levy, while $845,000 would be paid by the public service corporations enjoying special privileges. After this year he said he believed the state would not levy a direct tax for state purposes. He told how he had required counties to pay for warrants, and took up the school book contracts, referring to the refusal of some of the companies to exchange the books, as the contracts required. He said that he had ordered the attorney general of the state to bring suits and procure the appointment of receivers for the stock of books of such companies in Oklahoma, and that the receivers would be permitted to condone the business and exchange the books as the contracts required. This statement met with vigorous applause.

After again paying his respects to President Roosevelt, whom he characterized as "Teddy the Terrible" who had permitted Mr. Cortelvon, he said, to gather from the United States Steel Company $120,000 for campaign purposes when he (Roosevelt) was a candidate for the presidency the governor concluded, receiving the congratulations of many of those on the platform.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical, mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments. The "Night Cure" as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissue, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. THE SHOE MAN

J. W. Byrd Gave.
This morning at six o'clock J. W. Byrd died at the home of R. W. Simpson on West 14th with tuberculosis. His affliction was long and painful and the end, however sad, was undoubtedly a welcome relief to this man who wrestled so long patiently and bravely with the affliction that knows no master. For more than eighteen months the deceased fought for strength, but it was the will of Providence that he should come and abide where sickness and sorrow is not known.

The death of Walter Byrd is an unspeakable loss to not only those who are closest to him on account of kindred tie, but to his army of friends in Ada, Konowa, elsewhere in Oklahoma and in his native state, Mississippi. He came to Ada several years ago, and was engaged here in the cotton business until his health gave away more than a year ago. Against him no man could say aught. He was a good man.

All Ada is bowed in profound grief and genuine reverence. He leaves a lone companion whose love, devotion and tender care throughout the struggle has been no less beautiful than pathetic. She was faithful.

Notices announce that funeral services will be conducted at the Methodist church Sunday at 1 p. m., by Pastor T. L. Rippey of which church the deceased was a constant member. The interment will take place at Rosedale following the funeral services.

J. C. Byrd, a brother from Corvath, Miss.; G. L. Carroll of Ardmore, father of Mrs. Byrd, and Mr. and Mrs. Foster Simpson of Konowa, are in attendance.

One of the happiest memories of our childhood is the time when mother dressed us up in our best clothes and led us away to Sunday school. Sometimes we were very rebellious. We wanted to chase butterflies across the meadow if we were in the country and we wanted to play with the friend next door if we were in the city. Do you remember how we were placed on the long seats and our feet just dangled on the floor? Perhaps our teacher was a very beautiful girl who looked more like the angel she told us about than flesh and blood. She related wonderful stories of the biblical characters and taught us those great truths that guide us even today when the crisis comes and our best self rules us. We sang the simple songs as the chorus led; we bowed our little heads as the prayers were offered; we listened to the words of the pastor, whose kind face we can never forget, and then we wandered back home tugging at mother's hand and pleading for more stories of the wonderful Nazarine.

Now we are great big men and women and perhaps we are more worldly than we should be. We think of business, of social duties, of our ambitions to excel our brothers and too often we forget the meaning of the Sabbath and too often we do not think of taking our children to Sunday school. We think we have no time to waste in going to church. We hold to that form of worship which is not sectarian and does not call for attendance at church. We may be disbelievers, backsliders, or we may be just neglectful. What ever our own creed may be, however, we have no right to deny the little ones the privileges of attending Sunday school. It is a part of our duty to our offsprings and to society as a whole to see they are brought up in the right way. Perhaps our neglect has gone to such an extent that the children do not want to go. They prefer to play in the nursery or romp on the lawn, but it is our duty to see they are given that early religious teaching upon which the great structure of real manhood and womanhood is reared.

After all, the source of all real happiness is a firm belief in the teachings of the Bible and of Jesus and Him crucified. In the mad pursuit of the bubbles of life—riches, power, prestige—we often lose sight of this great truth. It is only when some sorrow comes, some sudden reverses in business, some failure to achieve, dims the blue background of our skies that we turn to the Book and recall the old days when we trudged away to Sunday school. Then all the beauty, all the power of those simple truths dawn upon us again and we are our best selves, strong in faith and able to bear any burden.

You say it is not the province of a newspaper to preach sermons? This, kind reader, is no sermon; it is just a little heart-to-heart talk which may touch someone's heart and be the means of sending some little child to Sunday school and forming impressions which will cling to that child through all the years to come. As we walk down to our office to look over the Sunday morning mail, let us resolve to see that the ones we love best of all spend a part of the day as the Infinite One intended.—Exchange.

COMMEND HASKELL.

Democratic Mass Meeting at Oklahoma City Adopt Resolutions.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Oct. 3.—From the same platform employed by Secretary Taft a year ago, when he came to Oklahoma and denounced the State Constitution, urging the people to reject it, and later used by Mr. Bryan to characterize the then secretary of war as the "Great Postponer for Ohio," Gov. C. N. Haskell faced a large and somewhat enthusiastic audience tonight. The occasion was a democratic rally held under the auspices of the Oklahoma City Bryan and Kern club.

Some excitement was furnished when at the conclusion of the address Paul Nesbitt of the State Examiner and Inspector's office presented for adoption a set of resolutions, telling of Gov. Haskell's work in the state, the story of his resignation from the national democratic committee and the causes of the fight being made upon him.

Roosevelt and Hearst.
The resolutions denounced President

dent Roosevelt and W. R. Hearst as associating naming the former as an ally and associate of the latter. When it came to the adoption R. E. Still, a real estate dealer of Oklahoma City, announced that he was a democrat of thirty-six years' standing, and asked that all reference to the President, as an associate of Mr. Hearst be eliminated. Cries against the motion at once became deafening, and it was impossible for Lee Cruce of Ardmore, who presided as chairman of the meeting, to get the audience quiet. Considerable loud talk that could hardly be heard above the general noise passed between Mr. Still and others in the throng, until three policemen moved through the crowd, surging around the press tables in futile attempts to restore order. To add to the excitement one end of the platform, upon which were standing a number of ladies and those who had taken seats on the platform, gave way with a crash, falling about five feet. No one was reported injured, but this incident had little effect on Mr. Still, who proclaimed at the top of his voice that he was "a democrat in the house of the faithful." Chairman Cruce finally put the motion to adopt the resolution as read which carried with loud acclaim, with Mr. Still demanding that the procedure was wrong, as his motion should have been put first.

Invited to Texas Fair.

A gentleman from Ardmore whose name was not announced then presented to Gov. Haskell a banner from Carter county, following which Sidney Sugars of Ardmore in a speech, extended the people of Oklahoma an invitation to attend the Texas State Fair at Dallas Oct. 20, when Gov. Haskell will make an address there. What remained of the gathering filed out of the large auditorium. The building has a seating capacity of about 1,500 and when the Governor mounted the platform all seats were filled and there were not less than 1,500 standing in the rear and along the sides of the room. In the audience were a number of republicans, judging at times from the applause. There were present democrats from all points in the state, wearing badges and buttons complimentary to the governor. Badges brought by the Guthrie contingent carried the following:

"I am for Governor Haskell because he is for honest government. And the grafters still kick."

They were pinned to coats with buttons bearing Gov. Haskell's portrait, while some were pinned with buttons bearing pictures of both Bryan and Haskell. Two hands furnished the music were lustily applauded in playing "Dixie" and "Star-Spangled Banner."

Haskell Applauded.

Although much of the governor's speech had been repeated, at other places, its newness here served to keep the audience in a good state of applause, that frequently broke into shouts and cheers. He referred with frequency to Dennis T. Flynn, republican candidate for the United States senate; Bird S. McGuire, republican candidate for congress from the Fifth District; William Bushy of McAlester, but did not mention by name neither L. L. Russell of Ardmore nor Omar K. Benedict of Oklahoma City. He denounced President Roosevelt and W. R. Hearst.

Mr. Cruce as chairman of the meeting asked that the best seats be given to those who had seen fit to criticize the state administration, for it was desired that they be made to feel as comfortable as possible in view of what was coming. He said it was the time and the duty of every patriotic citizen to stand with the governor in the fight he is making. Applause greeted this statement. "We have office," he said "to attack Gov. Haskell, seen the president descended from his high but ten thousand times more is he attacking the injunction of the people of Oklahoma."

"If I stood in his place I would not seek vindication in the courts. He has appeared before the people of Oklahoma, been tried and vindicated by a majority of more than 25,000. (Applause.) I would rather have that kind of vindication than all the verdicts of all the juries of the earth. (Applause.) This is the most important campaign since the war. If you are a republican and after reading the platform of the republican party you conclude that it is the best, then vote the republican ticket (cheers and cries of "No"), but, after reading the democratic platform, if you find that it is better, then it is your duty to vote the democratic ticket." (Cheers.)

After the ovation following the introduction of Gov. Haskell died away he held in his hand a list of printed questions, unsigned, but purporting to be from laboring men.

"Union labor will put its foot upon it. (Cheers.) They never attack a man by lack of signature" (applause), he said dropping the paper to the floor. Several cried, "Hurrah for Haskell," and one told him to put his foot upon the paper.

"Union labor will put its foot upon it," he answered. He told the audience that since his election as governor he had not taken a moment's time from the work of state for his personal business. His efforts in placing the state in the front rank had been attacked, he said, by republicans and others with memory of the flesh pots of territorial days, who have neither love of country nor pride in the state.

Referring to President Roosevelt he said:

"The president of the United States, apparently ambitious to win laurels in a political campaign and possibly mistaking that I was a candidate (cheers,) descended from the office that has been graced by such men as Washington and Lincoln in his attack upon me, to the position below his gutter level in east side politics in New York. (Cheers.) So anxious was he to pick me as a victim that he accepted hearsay evidence from the man who a few years ago he had branded as being responsible for the assassination of President McKinley. In a few days he revisited his story.

"He said that I attempted to bribe the attorney general of Ohio, but with the secret service at his command he backed down like a whipped puppy without knowing the truth. (Cheers.) Five days later he said: 'Omitting further allusion to the Ohio matter, I now charge C. N. Haskell has been used by a firm of attorneys for $500.' This is dropping from the sublime to the ridiculous, but he has not the courage and manhood to say, 'I apologize for lying about you.'

He then told of the statement of Mr. Monnett, the Attorney General of Ohio referred to, and the statements of C. B. Squires to the effect that he had no conversation with Monnett, did not know Haskell, and that Haskell had no connection with the Standard Oil Company. All this forced him, the governor said, to join president Roosevelt and conclude it was unnecessary to make further allusion to the Ohio matter.

The governor paid his respects to W. R. Hearst, and then took up state matters and defended the acts of the state administration. Answering the charges that the school land department was being conducted with great expense, he said that for the first six months under the state it cost $14,000, while for the same period under territorial days it cost $2,000, but now the state had nine hundred thousand acres more of land to look after. He told of a pigeonhole found in the Territorial department containing 9278,000 worth of notes due the department which had been marked as worthless and uncollectible. An attorney was employed, and has collected $189,719.29 of the amount at a cost to the state of $1,807. In this connection he said that Fred L. Wennert, the last secretary of the Territorial land department, was a capable and honest officer, who had to take his orders for a Territorial board, where the trouble always originated. It cost $2,100 to handle the farm loan department to date.

A significant statement was made regarding the state tax levy. The governor stated that this year only $905,210.11 would have to be secured by a direct levy, while $845,000 would be paid by the public service corporations enjoying special privileges. After this year he said he believed the state would not levy a direct tax for state purposes. He told how he had required counties to pay for warrants, and took up the school book contracts, referring to the refusal of some of the companies to exchange the books, as the contracts required. He said that he had ordered the attorney general of the state to bring suits and procure the appointment of receivers for the stock of books of such companies in Oklahoma, and that the receivers would be permitted to condemn the business and exchange the books as the contracts required. This statement met with vigorous applause.

After again paying his respects to President Roosevelt, whom he characterized as "Teddy the Terrible" who had permitted Mr. Cortelvon, he said, to gather from the United States Steel Company $120,000 for campaign purposes when he (Roosevelt) was a candidate for the presidency the governor concluded, receiving the congratulations of many of those on the platform.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical, mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood elements. The "Night Cure" as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissue, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

J. W. Byrd Gone.
This morning at six o'clock J. W. Byrd died at the home of R. W. Simpson on West 14th with tuberculosis. His affliction was long and painful and the end, however sad, was undoubtedly a welcome relief to this man who wrestled so long patiently and bravely with the affliction that knows no master. For more than eighteen months the deceased fought for strength, but it was the will of Providence that he should come and abide where sickness and sorrow is not known.

The death of Walter Byrd is an unspeakable loss to not only those who are closest to him on account of kindred tie, but to his army of friends in Ada, Konowa, elsewhere in Oklahoma and in his native state, Mississippi. He came to Ada several years ago, and was engaged here in the cotton business until his health gave away more than a year ago. Against him no man could say aught. He was a good man.

All Ada is bowed in profound grief and genuine reverence. He leaves a lone companion whose love, devotion and tender care throughout the struggle has been no less beautiful than pathetic. She was faithful.

Notices announce that funeral services will be conducted at the Methodist church Sunday at 1 p. m., by Pastor T. L. Rippey of which church the deceased was a constant member. The interment will take place at Rosedale following the funeral services.

J. C. Byrd, a brother from Corinth, Miss.; G. L. Carroll of Ardmore, father of Mrs. Byrd, and Mr. and Mrs. Foster Simpson of Konowa, are in attendance.

Superior Musical Production

All who appreciate Superior Musical renditions will meet this celebrated company Saturday night.

One of the happiest memories of our childhood is the time when mother dressed us up in our best clothes and led us away to Sunday school. Sometimes we were very rebellious. We wanted to chase butterflies across the meadow if we were in the country and we wanted to play with the friend next door if we were in the city. Do you remember how we were placed on the long seats and our feet just dangled on the floor? Perhaps our teacher was a very beautiful girl who looked more like the angel she told us about than flesh and blood. She related wonderful stories of the biblical characters and taught us those great truths that guide us even today when the crisis comes and our best self rules us. We sang the simple songs as the chorus led; we bowed our little heads as the prayers were offered; we listened to the words of the pastor, whose kind face we can never forget, and then we wandered back home tagging at mother's hand and pleading for more stories of the wonderful Nazarine.

Now we are great big, men and women and perhaps we are more worldly than we should be. We think of business, of social duties, of our ambitions to excel our brothers and too often we forget the meaning of the Sabbath and too often we do not think of taking our children to Sunday school. We think we have no time to waste in going to church. We hold to that form of worship which is not sectarian and does not call for attendance at church. We may be disbelievers, backsliders, or we may be just neglectful. What ever our own creed may be, however, we have no right to deny the little ones the privileges of attending Sunday school. It is a part of our duty to our offsprings and to society as a whole to see they are brought up in the right way. Perhaps our neglect has gone to such an extent that the children do not want to go. They prefer to play in the nursery or romp on the lawn, but it is our duty to see they are given that early religious teaching upon which the great structure of real manhood and womanhood is reared.

After all, the source of all real happiness is a firm belief in the teachings of the Bible and of Jesus and Him crucified. In the mad pursuit of the bubbles of life—riches, power, prestige—we often lose sight of this great truth. It is only when some sorrow comes, some sudden reverses in business, some failure to achieve, dims the blue background of our skies that we turn to the Book and recall the old days when we trudged away to Sunday school. Then all the beauty, all the power of those simple truths dawn upon us again and we are our best selves, strong in faith and able to bear any burden.

You say it is not the province of a newspaper to preach sermons? This, kind reader, is no sermon; it is just a little heart-to-heart talk which may touch someone's heart and be the means of sending some little child to Sunday school and forming impressions which will cling to that child through all the years to come. As we walk down to our office to look over the Sunday morning mail, let us resolve to see that the ones we love best of all spend a part of the day as the Infinite One intended. —Exchange.
